SIGNATORY COUNTRIES TO THE HAGUE CONVENTION
(except signatory countries also belonging to the European Union)

Below you will find details of the documents you should prepare in your country and provide upon your arrival at IAMZ in order to formalize your registration. Information is also provided on the procedures to follow.

Required documents

- Authenticated photocopy of your passport
- Authenticated photocopy of your university diploma, with The Hague Apostille Certificate issued by the competent authority in your country. If your university diploma is presently in the process of being issued and you do not have it in your possession, you should present a document issued by your education authority, certifying that you have completed your studies and have obtained the corresponding degree. In this case this is the document that requires The Hague Apostille Certificate
- Authenticated photocopy of the official transcript of records, with The Hague Apostille Certificate issued by the competent authority in your country, that includes the official duration of studies in academic years, the subjects taken, the teaching load (hours or credits) and qualifications obtained in each
- Certification issued by your education authority, with The Hague Apostille Certificate issued by the competent authority in your country, accrediting that the university degree awarded to you entitles access to official postgraduate studies in your country

Procedure to follow for the official translation into Spanish of the documents

Upon your arrival you should provide the official translation of the documents. This translation may be obtained in your country through:

- The Embassy or Consulates of Spain in your country
- Sworn translators duly authorized and registered in Spain

Procedure to follow for the authentication of copies

You can authenticate the copies of the documents in the Spanish Embassy or Consulates in your country. If you prefer, you can submit the original documents as well as photocopies at IAMZ to be authenticated, and afterwards the originals will be returned.
